

Name: _____

Date: _____

Module 6

Module 6: Death & Dying

1. Dr. Elisabeth Kübler-Ross outlines the order of the Stages of Grief as:
 - a. Denial, anger, bargaining, depression, and acceptance.
 - b. Anger, denial, depression, bargaining, and faith.
 - c. Depression, denial, anger, bargaining, and acceptance.
 - d. Anger, denial, bargaining, depression, and faith.
2. Denial helps protect a Consumer who is dying from emotional upset.
 - True
 - False
3. It is important for the PSS to know that denial is a normal part of the grieving process.
 - True
 - False
4. The PSS would be crossing boundaries if they were to try to convince a Consumer to accept treatment if they were diagnosed with a terminal illness.
 - True
 - False
5. It is important for the PSS to remember not to take a Consumer's anger personally, especially if they have been diagnosed with a terminal illness. Anger is part of the grieving process.
 - True
 - False
6. It is important for the PSS to only offer help that can be realistically provided to a Consumer who is dying.
 - True
 - False
7. It is important for the PSS to be a good listener for a dying Consumer, even if the topics being talked about make them sad.
 - True
 - False
8. Many cultural groups have very different death rituals. It is important to honor each culture's beliefs.
 - True
 - False
9. Self-care is important when working with Consumers who are terminally ill or dying.
 - True
 - False